Cormack receives Wilson fellowship

William T. Cormack, a senior from Oak Park, Ill., has been awarded a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship to study at any university of his choice in the United States or Canada.

The award carries a basic stipend of $1500 plus family allowances and full costs for a year's graduate study.

The purpose of the fellowship, established in 1945, is to recruit and support promising students for the college teaching profession.

Cormack was graduated from Fenwick high school in Oak Park. He is a philosophy major.

He has been a member of the Chicago club, the Engineering club, and the Coffee Hour committee. As a junior, he was named to Delta Epsilon Sigma, the national Catholic honor society, and last fall he was elected to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Cormack is one of 1400 winners from approximately 355 United States and Canadian universities and colleges who will study at 83 different graduate schools in the two countries.

Students were not permitted to apply directly for the Fellowship, but had to be nominated for it by a faculty member of the university or college.

Most of the winners are majoring in the humanities or the social sciences, but there are also a number of scientists and mathematicians among them.

'Animal Farm' is March book

By MARY F. FAULKNER

Animal Farm by George Orwell, the March book of the month, is a political satire on Communism.

Written as an allegory, the story tells how the animals on an English farm overthrow their drunken master declaring, "All animals equal, but some animals more equal than the rest."

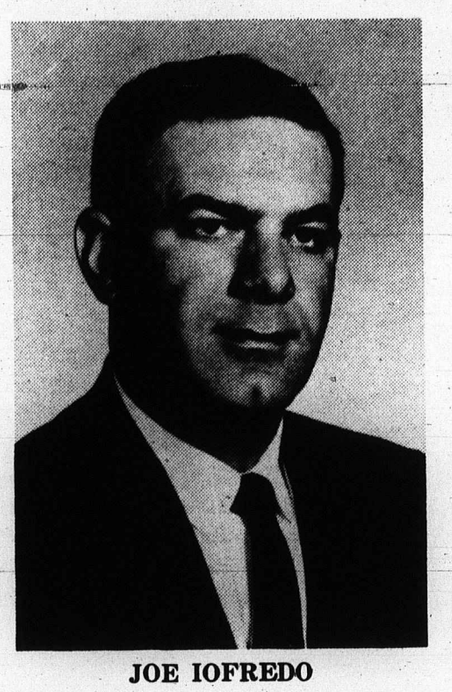
Commonweal states, "This little talk of 120 odd pages has more explosive energy and actuality than a 500 page carefully documentary report on Russia."

Similar comments are found in other reviews which call it a classic and consider it a Gulliver's Travels brought up to date.

Not only is Animal Farm an excellent piece of satire but it is also an entertaining story. The New York Times said, "Animal Farm is a wise, compassionate and illuminating fable for our times."

The discussion on April 10, is expected to be very lively as present Communist conditions are viewed as part of Orwell's Animal Farm.

Iofredo's contract will be dropped; new coaches to be named



JOE IOFREDO

Head coach Joe Iofredo's contract, which expires this year, will not be renewed by St. Joseph's, Fr. Richard P. Baird, director of athletics, has announced. Iofredo was head coach of both football and basketball. His successors will be announced next week.

Iofredo came to St. Joe in 1957 as assistant coach in both football and basketball. He took over the reins as head basketball coach in 1959, and became head football coach the following year.

Coach Iofredo's basketball teams had compiled a 27-38 record during the last three seasons. In his first year as head basketball coach, Iofredo led the Pumas to a 6-6 ICC record for fourth place in the conference.

In 1959-60, his squad finished sixth in the ICC with a 3-9 record. Last season was the worst in St. Joe basketball history, as the Pumas won only five while losing 15 and finishing last in the ICC with a record of 2-10.

In two seasons as head football coach, Iofredo's teams won seven, lost nine, and tied one. The Pumas of 1959-60 posted a 3-3 record in the ICC to finish in a three way tie for third place. Last fall, the Big Red gained sole possession of third place in the conference with a 3-2-1 record.

A native of Cleveland, O., and a 1946 graduate of Western Reserve University, the 36 year old Iofredo compiled an impressive eight year high school head coaching record of 11-5 in football, 128-43 in basketball, and 41-12 in baseball. He came to St. Joe from Hamilton Catholic high school in Hamilton, O.

Iofredo began his coaching career in 1946 as assistant football, wrestling, and baseball coach at Shaker Heights high school in Cleveland. The next year he moved to Cleveland's Benedictine high school where he was assistant football and basketball coach for two years.

From 1949 to 1952, Iofredo was head basketball and baseball coach and assistant football coach at Wheeling Central high school in Wheeling, W. Va. His basketball teams compiled a three year record of 61-8 and captured the conference and state championships all three years. His baseball teams had a 41-12 mark and he helped the football squad to a 12-9 three year record.

His next post was at Chaminade high school in Dayton, O., in 1952-53. He took over the basketball reins there and compiled a 12-8 record and assisted the football squad to a 9-1 mark.

For the next four years he was head basketball coach at Hamilton Catholic where his teams won 55 and lost 27. He was also head football coach during his last two years there, compiling an 11-5 record.

Track repairs begun; no date for completion can be set

By CHARLES J. SCHUTTROW

The track improvement program, begun Feb. 24, is now in full operation.

Gravel has been removed from the parking lot northeast of the fieldhouse for the prospected extension of the track to the official 440 yard (quarter-mile) size. This extended area will be used for such events as the shot put, broad jump, and pole vault.

Fr. Richard P. Baird said the enlargement program includes a 700-foot straightaway next to the highway. The 100 and 200 yard dashes will be run on this strip.

Much of the work will be involved in adjusting the width of the track to regulation size. The present track, which varies in width from place to place, will be readjusted to the standard 20-foot width at all points. Fr. Baird said no curb will be installed next to the track's edge at this time.

A survey of the present field, which circles the football field east of the fieldhouse, was completed last weekend.

From information gained by the survey, workmen will be able to estimate how great an extension will be required to adjust the track to standard size.

Fr. Baird said the track extension will be built onto the present track. A triple layer of gravel, clay, and cinders will cap the new track.

"Every effort is being made to set the track up according to regulation collegiate requirements," said Fr. Baird.

He also cautioned that students should not in any way alter the stakes in the improvement area because they have been placed there by surveyors to serve definite purposes.

Fr. Paul Wellman, the college business manager, said no definite completion date can be established for the improvement program because the weather and the availability of personnel will vary.

He added that the weather was primarily responsible for delay in starting the improvement program. "It was absolutely impossible to do anything during the time the ground was frozen or covered with snow," he said.

Puma coed classifies campus males: are you a possible?

By CAROL J. MATHEW

Joemen may be classified into two groups: the impossibles, fellows a coed cannot tolerate; and the possibles, fellows a coed can tolerate.

Of the impossibles the first is the know-it-all. This fellow is simply one that thinks he knows everything about everything, girls included. A coed can't tell him anything which he doesn't know already, not because she knows more than he, or because he knows it all, really, but simply because he refuses to listen to her.

The "show-off" is the next impossible Joeman. A fellow of this sort tries to lure a coed's attention in every possible way, but chiefly by being boisterous and possessive.

He exploits his pseudo-perfections, assuming a coed will think of him as a wonderful guy. The basic motivation for the actions of the first two types is the lacking of self-confidence; a "show-off" and a know-it-all think they are covering up this fault, but they couldn't "show it off" more.

The avoidist is a Joeman who thinks that a coed is intruding in his private realm. He is the third type of the impossibles, and he is the most intolerable!

All other types open doors for "skirts" by force of habit, but this type avoids opening doors for coeds because he avoids a coed in all ways! If a coed sits down at the same table in the library with this type, he will pick up his books and politely move to another table and study there.

One quality which all the impossibles possess is that they are one hundred per cent gossipers.

Of the possibles the first is the shy type. There are two shy types: the really shy is the one who has eyes which look the other way when a coed crosses his path; he is so timid he won't say even "good morning." The scared is the one who has gone to boys' schools all his short life; he is so close to his mother that he wouldn't think of another sweetheart! Because a coed can sympathize with them, the shy are possible.

The sweet, but-doesn't-know-how-to-be-sweet, is the next possible Joeman.

A coed has to feel sorry for this Joeman because he does everything possible to be sweet, but he over exerts himself in the attempt, thus proving to be artificial and ineffective.

The acceptist is a Joeman who accepts a coed for what she is, another student striving to learn and to graduate. He, the best of the possibles, helps a coed with lessons, gives advice, is a true friend, and is unafraid to talk to a coed. This Joeman thinks for himself (probably smokes Viceroys) and is unafraid of what other Joemen may say.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if all Joemen were acceptists? However, it must be said that college would not be as interesting if it didn't possess the impossibles as well as the possibles.

Hanley Science Award contest sets entry deadline for April 1

The deadline for the annual Hanley Science Award contest has been set for April 1.

The first place prize of $100 is donated by Mr. William A. Hanley, '08, of Indianapolis. Dr. Frank A. Benchik, '42, of East Chicago, Ind., donates the second place prize of $50.

These awards will probably be presented on Parents' Day at the college in May.

Open only to juniors and seniors majoring in the natural sciences, the contest requires all entrants to submit their essays in triplicate and under a pen name to either Fr. Urban Siegrist or their divisional chairman.

A sealed envelope containing a card with the title of the essay, the entrant's real name, and his pen name must also accompany the manuscript.

The essays should be written in a popular style on some topic related to science. They should present technical data in such a manner that the layman can understand it, while retaining scientific accuracy. No bibliography is necessary, and the essays should be of moderate length.

All entries will be judged according to appropriateness and interest of the topic, clarity of style, neatness, and knowledge of the subject.

The winning essay is usually published in Measure, the campus literary magazine. Last year's winner was Alan B. Purcell, an electrical engineering major, whose essay was entitled "The Land Color Experiments."

Soph retreat begins Friday

Fr. Terrence Stanton, O.S.B., will be retreat master for the sophomore retreat this weekend, March 10-12.

Because of a conflict with class schedules, no conferences will be given on Saturday morning. The 8:30 Sunday mass will be reserved for the retreatants.

The schedule for the sophomore retreat is as follows:

Better attendance at Council meetings would benefit all

Student attendance at Student Council meetings has never been overwhelming at St. Joseph's.

Some students say they are "too busy." Others admit, bluntly they think, that they are just "not interested." Only a few are unaware of the procedure regarding attendance at Council meetings, as is the case with the freshman author of this week's letter to the editor.

None of these excuses are valid reasons for avoiding every Council meeting that takes place in the course of a four year college career.

Every other week, the Council holds its regular business meeting. The meeting is open to all St. Joe students and lasts less than an hour.

Those who are not interested are, for the most part, ignorant of what actually goes on at the meetings. They are not really not interested, for it is their interests that are discussed every other week, and every one is interested in himself.

We do not mean to say that the whole student body is under a moral obligation to attend every meeting. On the other hand, there are a good number of juniors and seniors on campus who have yet to attend a single meeting.

There are valid excuses why, on a particular night, a student may not have the time to sit in on a meeting of the Council. But there is no reason for constant, deliberate avoidance of everything having to do with student governament.

This is the students' Council. It exists only for and because of them. Now the students can ignore it or they can use it.

At St. Joseph's, the students are evidently not making as good use of the Council as they could.

The benefits of active participation in student government are many and varied.

The student can learn to deal with other people and to discuss and solve mutual problems.

The Student Council meeting is the most effective place to bring his gripes and complaints about campus conditions. Here, there is a chance of having something done about his problems rather than just talking about them.

Council critique

By MARTY WATERS

This column will be a reply to Fr. Bierberg's letter which appeared last week.

Fr. Bierberg referred to "Mr. Cappuccilli's and Fr. Rueve's clinics" as remedial courses. Regarding this I have two questions: One, are they substantially different from the "informal lectures" which I mentioned in connection with the business letter writing program? Two, if they are, why are they not listed in the catalog as no credit remedial "courses?"

If these "clinics" are not substantially different from the "informal lectures," then the main difference between Fr. Bierberg and me is one of semantics.

When I referred to something as a "course," I meant a course for credit, and when I said the faculty and the administration did not approve of such courses, I meant they did not approve of giving credit for such courses.

This, I feel, is strongly implied by the sentence in my column which says: "He (Fr. Bierberg) did, however, give John Mascotte a free hand setting up a program concerning this matter." It does not seem likely that Fr. Bierberg would do such a thing if he did not approve of no credit remedial courses.

However, if Fr. Bierberg felt that I had wrongly conveyed his meaning, he was certainly within his rights to write a letter saying exactly that.

But it is unfortunate that when he wrote his letter he did not bear in mind that my column was not an attack on him, nor was it an attempt to make him look foolish.

That is a good deal more than I can say for the way in which Fr. Bierberg clarified his point of view.

Fr. Ballman chosen for international geology institute

Fr. Donald L. Ballman, Ph.D., C.PP.S., instructor in geology at St. Joseph's, is one of 20 American geology teachers chosen for an international geology institute to be held in Great Britain this summer.

The eight week program, sponsored by the American Geological Institute with funds provided by the National Science Foundation, will begin June 29 at the University of Swansea in Wales.

The course will continue until August 21. During the course, the participants will move about to all the major geologic areas of Great Britain.

According to Fr. Ballman, the main intent of the institute is to give the American geologists a better understanding of the problems encountered by the founders of modern geology.

In the areas of Britain where Fr. Ballman's group will study are the sites where the Cambrian, Ordovician, Silurian, and Devonian ~~eras~~ rocks were identified and dated. ~~Only the vast pre-cambrian age preceded these eras in geologic time.~~

SJ summer session to start June 19

The St. Joseph's College summer session will be held from June 19 to July 27.

Special programs will be offered in theology, geology and liturgical music, as well as courses in biology, economics, education, English, French, history, humanities, Latin, mathematics, philosophy, physical education, physics, social science, and Spanish.

The summer session program was begun in 1948 and has grown steadily. Last year there was an attendance of 250, including 150 nuns and 20 St. Joseph's seniors on the geology field trip to New Mexico.

Summer session classes are held five mornings a week.

One of the greatest advantages of the summer session is that it enables the student on probation to lighten his load and still finish college in four years.

The price: $15 per credit hour plus $110 for room and board.

Dave Hoover's Off the Cuff

Now that the long weekend has given us a chance to take a break in the daily grind, it is time to settle down and get in shape for mid-term exams.

For you freshmen, the usual procedure is to build up your grades at mid-term and then coast until June. Just try it.

Fred Hayes has the right idea. He came back early on the long weekend to get ahead of the books. The real reason is that he wanted to see the movie here Sunday night, but of course Fred isn't spreading that around.

Fred has another reason for coming back early, though this is even more mysterious. It seems he lost his key, and Bunny won't let him in anymore.

And what is the key to the problems of our own Ralph Kenville? Ralph has had many problems in the past, but his latest is a monthly stomach ache. It must be symbolic of something, Ralph.

Job interviews are going quite well this year. For some unknown reason St. Joe students are in demand more than ever. Even Paul Reamer announced he has received a position with the New York City sewage system once again for the coming summer.

And a certain young man has done it again. Yes, he has gone to the woods and once again become firmly entwined around the little finger of a certain Miss Wilson. And his short era of independance seemed to give him so much enjoyment. It was quite an act.

Things not to miss this coming month:

The governor's apperance at the Talent Show.

Fr. Shea's party on St. Patrick's day.

The next Scholastic Committee meeting.

Al "Hop-along" Hanley's complete recovery, relapse, and another recovery before the month is over.

The basketball banquet.

Something most of you missed over the long weekend was Emil Labbe's thorough search of just about everything. I wonder if he found what he was looking for?

Rudy Sullivan, the look alike, think alike assistant of our alumni director, has announced that he expects a large turnout for the seniors' outing in Whiting on March 17.

A final note to Brother Gerard: please don't ever do that again. If you only knew what went on in the Rec hall last week.

Moriarty thanks assistant dean

Dear Editor,

P.P.S. to Fr. Bierberg: I would like to thank you, Father, for your confidence in my ability to attain the honor of becoming a governor someday.

However, so that I do not ruin my "career" and bring down the animosity of most Christian and charitable persons, I hope that I will be able to refrain from personal attacks upon persons who put forth ideas which I don't agree with.

Rather, I hope that I may attack only the ideas—not the persons.

Sincerely,
Bill Moriarty

Frosh questions SC attendance

Dear Editor,

As a freshman, many questions I have had concerning student government at St. Joseph's have gone unanswered. Of prime importance is the Student Council. It seems to me that the Student Council has few followers. At least the attendance at meetings is very low.

What is the reason for this laxness? Is is because only selected individuals are allowed to attend?

I would deeply appreciate it if you would make this matter of attendance at Student Council meetings clear to me.

Sincerely,
Daniel O'Shea

Variety to keynote Puma Talent Show

By JOE BOTON

Variety! That's the latest word on the Talent Show, which will be presented in the college auditorium on Wednesday, March 15, at 8:00 p.m.

This year's "Ham Festival" will be M. C.'d by Bill Moriarty and Tony Freeland. Mr. Willard Walsh is faculty moderator of the show.

The New Upperclassmen will return to the SJ stage to let the Puma audience have that "big band" sound. This year the New Upperclassmen will feature vocalist Carol Mathew. In addition to performing with the band, Carol will also sing some solo numbers.

Once again Phil Ullo and Mickey Clark will be on hand to do some harmonizing. Mickey will also do a solo comedy sketch on the cafeteria scene.

Paul "Adam" Germek's trio will play a type of music unknown to the history of the college stage.

As an added attraction, Al Hanley, SC president, will do a "Surprise Act."

John Tatro will be back to sing for the Collegeville audience too.

Moriarty, who is directing the show, said that other possible acts have not yet agreed to participate in the show, but that those acts which have been mentioned would definitely be on the program.

CP tryouts

St. Joseph's Columbian Players will conduct tryouts next week for their second major production of the year, "The Rainmaker."

The tryouts will be held in the auditorium next Monday and Tuesday, March 13-14, from 7:30 to 9:00 p.m. All those who are interested are invited to try out.

This weekend, the Players will make a trip to St.-Mary's-of-the-Woods for the Indiana One Act Play Festival. Twenty-two members of the club will attend the festival.

Tom Carpenter and John Griffin will represent the club by putting on the play, "The Cathedral."

Varsity views

By BOB ROSPENDA

We are at that awkward stage of the year—too late for basketball, but too early for baseball and the other spring sports.

This gives us a good chance, however, to briefly review this past basketball season along with the possibilities for next year. The Pumas had a bad season. The record of five wins and 15 defeats is the worst in St. Joe basketball history.

A poor basketball season, as in any other sport, results from a combination of contributing factors, and at St. Joe at least two of these factors were lack of experience and failure of the usual Puma running game.

It's hard to predict what will happen in next year's cage season. but as the old saying goes, "There's no place to go but up."

This will depend, however, on how much the Pumas will miss Al Whitlow and Ron Holstein, both of whom graduate this year. Their scoring and rebounding will have to be adequately replaced if the Big Red hope to improve.

Next year's lineup will probably consist of Jerry Patchman at center, Art Voellinger at one forward and Jim O'Donnell at the other forward, if he again becomes eligible. At the guards will be Jim (J. C.) Crowley and most probably Bill Braunbeck.

Patchman, along with Voellinger, will be counted on to pick up most of the slack in rebounding due to the loss of Whitlow.

Both Patchman and Voellinger did some excellent rebound work in the last few games of the season.

As it stands, success next year will depend on this year's sophomores. If they continue to improve at the rate they did this season the picture could be rosy. We'll see.

IM basketball tourney starts

By BILL FORTIN

The 1961 intramural basketball tournament got under way on Wednesday, March 1, with a full slate of underclassmen games in the fieldhouse.

Under a new tournament format, introduced by Coach Ed Dwyer, director of intramurals, each of the five leagues will conduct its own playoff with the two finalists from each league entering the all-campus tournament at the completion of the league playoffs.

This new system allows each of the five leagues to have two teams among the ten final tournament teams.

The playoff and tournament games consist of 15-minute halves with five minute halftime periods. Unlike the games during the regular season, the tournament games will be favored by individual clocks and timekeepers, thereby allowing timeouts and stopping of the clock according to regulation basketball rules.

Last year the Noll Flyers won the championship by routing the defending titlist Bennett Overtakers. No senior team in recent intramural history has taken the championship. However, the domination of the senior teams from Bennett hall in the A league this year threatens to change this.

If the Bennett Flyers are able to repeat, they will be the first team ever to retain the title for two consecutive years.

In addition to the favored teams from Bennett, the A. A., the Flyers, the Nebbishes, and the Gunners, two sophomore teams are considered outside favorites, the Halas Outcasts and the Gallagher Stoners. The junior Noll Jokers of the A League represent the most serious threat from that class.

Program of athletic awards is revamped

A new program of awarding recognition to athletes who represent the college in intercollegiate competition has been set up by the athletic department.

Minimum requirements have been suggested for earning awards and new awards have been suggested for those athletes who participate in more than one sport.

To earn an award in football, the athlete must either attend all practice sessions and play at least one third of the total quarters of season games, or be a senior who has participated in all regularly scheduled practices and has been a team member for three years.

To earn an award in basketball the athletes must either attend all practices and participate in at least one third of the halves of the season games, or be a senior who has participated in all regular practice sessions and has been a team member for three years.

In baseball, awards will be given to those athletes who either attend all practice sessions and play one third of the games, or gain the special recommendation of the coach as a "specialist" (e.g. a pitcher), or are seniors who have attended all regular practice sessions and been team members for three years.

Athletes who participate in bowling, golf, tennis, or track will be given awards on the recommendation of the coach until such time as a better method can be developed on the basis of experience.

Awards will be presented in wrestling to those athletes who either attend all practices and represent the college in at least one third of all the regularly scheduled matches, or place in the upper four places in the conference or Little State meets, or be a senior who has participated in all regular practices and has been a team member for three years.

In every sport, an award may be given to any athlete on the special recommendation of the coach to the athletic committee in case of special circumstances.

Under the new program, freshmen will still be awarded numerals for each sport in which they participate. But those who participate in varsity sports will be presented different awards for each additional sport in which they can earn recognition.

In the athlete's first varsity season, he will be given a sweater and a letter for his first award, a clock trophy for recognition in a second sport, and a robe for recognition in a third sport.

For his second varsity campaign, the athlete will receive a jacket and a letter for his first sport, a blanket for his second sport, and a watch for his third sport.

A plaque will be awarded to the athlete for his third varsity campaign in each sport in which he has participated.

Club News

The Future Teachers club met Feb. 22 for a business-instruction session. Al Hanley, Student Council president, said that the club constitution requires some reworking. A committee was appointed to make the necessary changes.

A letter from the State Coordinator of Indiana Student Education requesting to meet with the club on March 21 concerning the ISEA and the SEA was read.

Ralph Gardner is the new president of the club, taking the place of Bill Kennedy, who left school after the first semester. Al Whitlow was elected vice-president.

Sister Mary Audrey was the speaker for the evening. She gave a talk on the principles, limitations, and advantages involved in using visual aits. After showing several visual aids, she distributed a mimeographed sheet listing sources of visual aid.

Anyone in the field of education or anyone interested in teaching is invited to attend the next meeting.

Eight intramural wrestling championships are decided

The eight final intramural wrestling matches entertained a capacity house in the fieldhouse on Tuesday, Feb. 28, during the faculty-Monogram club basketball game halftime.

In the 130-pound class John Jadryev won over Andy Guagenti; Bernie Skiwiercz won over Jack Mussey in the 140-pound division; and it was Willie Ketchmark over Tibor Liptai in the 150-pound class.

In the 160-pound class Jim Braet outscored Don Moll, 8-1; Ken Kocolowski beat Tom Seroczynski, 12-9, in the 170-pound class; winning over Terry Isselhard, 18-1, was Joe Strcelcyzk in the 180-pound class.

El Eschman edged Jim Biernat, 8-7, in the 190-pound division; and Dan Mobley won over Tom Dobson, 5-0, in the 200-pound class. The scheduled heavyweight match between Denny Mudd and Rodimer Jujo was cancelled.
